Hello Seahawk Families,

As we enter into hunting season, we want to remind parents and students that school is not a place for any hunting or shooting paraphernalia. Given the state of school threats throughout the nation, items such as bullets or bullet casings that students may want to show peers as trophies are easily mistaken as a reason to become fearful. As a sportsman myself, currently sharing the sport with my own children, I constantly communicate this message at home. We ask that you please do the same and help us in reminding students that there is no place for hunting or shooting paraphernalia in school as it has the potential to cause undue stress and fear on the entire school population. Furthermore, please be vigilant about checking backpacks and your child's other personal articles that he or she may take with them hunting or to shooting events to avoid your child from accidentally bringing such items to school.

Warmest Seahawk Regards,
Eric Cassie
